OUR PROGRAMME – KOLOLO METHOD (JAPAN)

- The Kololo Method is an educational training programme which was developed in Japan for persons with Autism that is based on its theory of brain development, and the theory of changing behaviour.
- Seri Mengasih Centre has been in operation since 1981 (44 years) and has been using the Kololo Method for more than 20 years.
- SMC is the only Autism Centre in Malaysia that has authorized to use the method originated from Japan.

What is Kololo Method?

ASD KOLOLO METHOD

- The Kololo Method is a general term for the educational training programme (Autism Spectrum Disorder)
- Developed in Japan by Mr Ishii Hijiri, together with Ms Saeko Kubota in 1980 for persons with Autism.
- Parents are the main trainers with teachers as facilitators. (Compulsory training)

Every child deserves to have access to education especially children with special needs.

Unfortunately, some students are unable to continue even the most affordable education programmes due to financial hardship.

Raising and caring for an autistic child is a full-time commitment and many parents sacrifice their own aspirations in the process.

We're seeking support to fund educational opportunities for these parents, so they too can grow, learn, and thrive alongside their children.

“Without government support, our school urgently needs funding to provide a service for children in need of education, including basic eating skills, functional living skills and rehabilitation services for kids with intellectual and development disabilities”

“ Families with children are often unable to pay for a place at the school, even though our fees are kept to the minimum, their priorities are to ensure their families are housed and feed”

“ 100% of donations go to funding places at the school for new students”

THANK YOU!
